I was told that ISC had over 20 years experience so they would be my best option. They pray on people that do not know what to do and come to then for help. The only help I see is that they help their self to your money. The book I received was a joke; some of the pages are not even readable and it says the same thing over & over for over 1/2 the book & Yes, a 12yr old could have done a better job on the brochure. When I called ISC, I talked to Mike; he was very rude and unprofessional. When I complained about the brochure all he could say was, well that is the size it will be and after reading [ISC SCAM ] I know why. It was about the size of a regular sheet of paper. Their information took one whole side and after bordering and headings there was little space to show the product. At that point it had already been 1 1/2 yrs. Mike said well we have to get this on thru, the dead line for the trade is almost here. Then the Patent attorney; when I read the material I ask questions & told then no dimensions. They assured me they changed everything as we were going over it on the phone. When I got the material back that they were suppose to have revised, I found that they had put dimensions in it after I explicitly said NO dimensions. That is when I looked up [ISC SCAM]. I found scams for Invention Submission Services in general with things to watch for. Then I found People coming clean about what was really happening at ISC. The two searches matched the things that I experienced. I found the person at ISC and the bank they finance through is the SAME person. When some girl from ISC called and I told her I found this, she said where did you find that, how did you find that. At this point I had been out about $10,000.00 with nothing to show but a cheap looking brochure that did not capture my product. I wrote a letter to ISC, which Changed their name to Invent help during this time. I asked for addresses and phone numbers for everyone that my stuff was sent to because they only sent a list of names & I could not find anything when I tried to look them up. I have not received any info. Some woman, big wig head over something called me; when I told her what I found she said well people can write stuff but it don't mean it's true and the case against them was years ago. I told her that was true but 99% of what I found was what I experienced with ISC and it answered my questions about the cheap looking brochure among other things, and that the case may have been years ago but that their service was still the same, nothing but a scam. I just got a letter with cancel on the contract. I wonder if they now plan to steal my product. I still want my money back. look up ISC/Invent help scam you will find lots of stuff especially when you start clicking all the openable places on all the pages. It is a real eye opener.

Run away, run away. This company is nothing more than a version of any NY or LA fashion modeling company that states they can make you a fashion icon because you have "the look". Of course, you must purchase a $12,000.00 package from them and they will contact all of their "contacts".

I recommend that you contact an attorney and go through the process on your own. If you don't, you are just going to feel manipulated. Just for fun, make an appointment, listen to the spiel and read the Invent Help success book in any of the lobbys. It is full of disclaimers and successes that did not even use Invent Help! Patents have been issued many, many years before these scammers came out from under their rocks. Do your homework.

I just had a sit down meeting with this guy at invent help a few days ago and he sounded excited about my invention and made me sign a confidentiality form and wanted me to put a down payment of $300 but i told him i still had to do some research before i did anything with money. Im happy i came across this web site, now i know they are a scam and i will look else where to get my invention up and going.

I wanted to check these guys out because I had a bad feeling when my husband made the appointment. Thanks for the information guys. We have an appointment with them tonight and I will not be signing anything! I will be having an interesting time confronting these issues that everyone else is having!

Don't ever go to inventhelp. They ripped me off for about $5,000. Some of that was borrowed money from someone who believed in my invention.

I am on disability and I did make payments. But nothing EVER came of it, and as far as I'm concerned, they are ALL scam artists. They PREY on your hopes and dreams, and then your just S.O.L.

It's too bad too, because of all the inventions they've taken in from people, they could be much much much richer than just taking payments from people. If they really did follow through, I can't imagine all the money that they could have made, with a little bit of effort on their part.

SHAME ON THEM, ALL THE WAY AROUND.

What scum to do this to people who are on disability, and those who are not.

irecently went in here to see if an idea i had was feaseable. The guy i talked to with this company said i had a really great idea. The thing was he really wanted me to put a down payment on my idea right then and there. saying things like "my time was worth a 100.00 bucks an hour to him and he would give me a discount if i made a down payment right then." It is hard for me to believe that a company that says they want to help you is in such a rush to get your money. THE PEOPLE ARE NICE BUT THE FEELING IS WRONG. The guy has called me for the last three consecutive days telling me he has talked to the regional manager about my idea and said they can work onpayment plans. In my opinion it is a lot of money to fork over just to find out your idea is already out there and to get a book about someone else's idea. i think your first step is to seek a patent attorney about your idea costing a fraction the amount of these guys. in my opinion!

IF you like those stories you'll love ours. this one starts with a game that my husband had been playing since he was a young boy. He made it up by using a few dice and keeping score and playing it with his friends and family. Many years had passed when i had finally had the idea to make it into a bord game and give it to him as a christmas gift. we played it every Friday night as Self Family Game Night and a friend of ours had the idea to paten it and put it out on the market to share it with the world. everyone else loved it that came in contact with it and she just knew that the rest of the world would too. well, that sounded like a good plan to us as we have 6 children and 2 grand children that we had adopted and take care of and times were getting too hard to carry us all. we were already living in mortgage and bankruptcy and drowning in a pool of bills. we were hoping to sell the game to a toy company and maybe get out of debt. well, i saw the ad for invent help on t.v that evening and i called the next morning. they were all too happy to make an appointment for me to come and speak with them about the game. they assured me that our game would be bigger than Yahtzee! I could hardly wait to tell Chris. I was so happy I wanted to cry. The days couldn't go fast enough to get us to that appointment. they told us to bring $250. for the patten fees and that's what we did but when we got there first off we sat by ourselves for almost 2 and a half hours! when the guy did talk to us, (Wayne), he was over enthuseastic and then told us that our $250 was just a down payment and if we wanted a paten it would cost us around $800! ok, we were still in agreement with this, we wanted to go with this game. plus HE was still telling us that HE felt really good about our game. Well, the months went by and we made our payments until it was all paid up. a full $800 Plus. The bottom line is that its been almost a year ago and it was only suppose to take 10 weeks for our paten to come in and we still don't have ours, only empty promises. They don't return our phone calls and if they do it's excuses and lies. We are still trying to deal in some way with them to get SOMETHING from them for our money. I think it may be time to find an attorney.

I made the mistake of dealing with this company, and lost several hundred dollars. I had several phone consultations and thought it was going well. So, I made several payments, then they quit contacting me, and I couldn't get in contact with the person who was supposed to be handling my invention. Then I got an email from someone else in the company saying "we are sorry you decided not to proceed with your invention". I emailed back and said that I never made that decision and where was my money! I never got a reply! big surprise, huh.
